You are invited to a presentation with LUNCH being served. In the past year there have been a number of decisions in the Federal Circuit such as Ariad Pharmaceuticals and In Re Kubin among others that will have a dramatic effect on U.S. patent prosecution and litigation. John will provide valuable insight regarding the significance of these decisions.

John P. White was born in Boston, Massachusetts, in 1946. He attended Columbia University School of Engineering, where he earned a BS degree in chemical engineering, and Columbia University's School of Graduate Faculties, where he earned an MA degree in chemical biology and an MPH degree in biophysical chemistry. Mr. White received his JD degree from Fordham University. He is admitted to the New York State Bar, the US District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York, and the US Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. He also is registered to practice before the US Patent and Trademark Office. Mr. White is a member of The Association of the Bar of the City of New York where he serves on its Patent Law Committee, the American Bar Association, the New York and New Jersey Intellectual Property Law Associations, American Intellectual Property Law Association, Federal Bar Council and Licensing Executives Society. Mr. White has lectured extensively on strategies for optimizing patent prosecution. His practice primarily focuses in the area of pharmaceuticals and biotechnology, representing corporations, start-up ventures, and university research centers in counseling, patent prosecution, licensing, and litigation.
